MYSTERY PLACE 1

● 129 m

Where stories sleep and wisdom gleams,
We seek the paths of inner dreams.
Not just for tales, but how to grow,
And games where clever thinkers go.

Our special spot, a cozy space,
Where learning finds its happy place.
For quiet talks, and plans we'd make,
Books for our dates, for goodness sake!

MYSTERY PLACE 2

● 354 m

A woman's name above the door,
Where we had never dined before.
You wore red — a skirt so bright,
I could hardly eat that night.

Wine was poured, our first shared plate,
The place still known — our first true date.
No need to walk there, no need to roam,
Just say her name, and you'll be home.

MYSTERY PLACE 3

● 543 m

A tumble from stone, a twist, a scare,
We rushed to a place with machines and care.
No bones were broken, but still we had to see
What secrets were hidden inside her knee.

A giant magnet hummed its tune,
While pictures formed of bone too soon.
Name the place where they could see —
The hidden truth inside her knee.
